At the previous hearing the prisoner's coun-further charge was now entered against the accused of having assaulted Maud Mary An-

Maud Mary Andrews, a smartly-dressed and ruddy-cheeked girl of nineteen years of age, was called. About June 17, she said, she saw an advertisement, and went to Goldhurst-terrace the next day. A young lady opened the door and ushered her into a room on the ground floor, and then went out, locking the door after her. Shortly afterwards the Mahatma came in, walked round her, and then touched her. She asked him what typing there was to do. "There is no work to do here," he replied. "All you have to do is to worship

me all day-long and be happy with the other five disciples who are in the house, I love them all very much indeed, and I shall love you the same if you come here." He then inquired if she had any parents, brothers, or sisters. She told him she had, and gave him particulars, whereupon he asked if she would like to be a disciple and worship him all day long. She said she would, for she was too frightened to say "No" At the same time she intimated that she must go. "You need not go," he said, "There is everything bere, and a room ready, and you will be very happy if you come here, because I should love you as I do the other disciples in the house." She repeated that she must go, and he then asked if she would return

This is a condition (or chacase) so which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down; as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the systom. No matter what may be its causes (for they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same; the more prominent being also plasmess, or use of presention or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. How, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour— VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY to throw off these morbid feelings, and experience proves that as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of

L'LANTING IN SINGAPORE.

Singapore has not had in the past much succent in planting. The first to take up land for agricultural purposes were the Chinese who found that gambier and pepper were suitable to the soil, and the remains of their work are still apparent in the large patches of lallang, tion are often profitable so long as concealed; found in all parts of the island. Once the Chinese abandoned the land, lallang appeared. It stayed, and seemed to be nourished by the constant fires which made an and of cultivation | time, Thus you make friends that stick by you, and prevented the young jungle from making and a reputation that is always worth twen beadway. Gambier takes two years to produce and pepper about five years to begin its useful carner, After that the plants begin to show. that they are past their prime and it seems a question when to abandon and to move on to better prospects. Next in order was the cultivation of Nutmegs and Mace which in the fifties were at their best, but after flourishing for a few years seemed to be struck down by a planue and nothing could stop the sudden death of the plant which for a time made Singapore beautiful and whose fall made many of old citizens poor. Nothing could exteed the handsome appearance of the plantations of Mr. Prinsep, Dr. Oxley, Charles Scott, Mr. Nassim, Father Beurel, Mr. d'Almeida and many others who might be named as, cuthusiastic planters fifty years ago, until the end came.

Pineapples were cultivated in the early days of the Settlements by the Bugis-and by them alone. Blakan Mati and the h of Passir Panjang were the favoured places for the cultivation and it was customary to say that a sampan load could be bought for one dollar. After they had become nearly extinct the cultivation revived under the more careful planting of the Chinese farmer, and now pineapples are a staple product of the Colony and are shipped to all parts of the world. There are at least twenty large factories and farming is an important industry not likely to be dropped for some years to come. However, the Chinese who cultivate, the pines only keep the ground clean; they do not enrich the soil to any extent and will in their old fashion "trek" to more profitable ground when the present land is exhausted. About six years may be given as the useful life of the pine, but a better demand in Europe or China or Japan would prevent it being neglected at too early a stage. That the cultivation of gambier and of pine apples has a strong influence on the climate is generally believed, and it is passing strange that Government do not stop the denuding of the land of its trees, thereby lessening the rainfall and raising the temperature of the atmosphere-and especially near the town.

The next cultivation which claims a place in Singapore is that of plants which produce Essential Oils, and these for a long time held a good position in the island. The late Mr. John t isher opened up the Perseverance Estate with lemon and citionella grasses and for many years in conjunction with Mr. Charles Allen manufactured and shipped the oils to Europe and America. At present the work is carried on by the firm of nyed Mahomed Alsagoff and Co., and the oil has a good hame to this day. Other smaller estates have lived their day and India and Ceylon havecompeted with Singapore in the coltivation, and the quantity of the oil manufactured has never been Cocoanut trees have been planted on the island; ever since the Settlement was opened and the plains near the sea are in every way suitable for their cultivation. With a little care bestowed on them the trees will last about one hundred years and it is necessary that they get that attention, otherwise the beetle proves desrenctive. Mr. d'Almeida of the late firm of lose d'Almeida and Cons was one of the first planters of Singapore, and after him Pr. Robert Little was perhaps the most enthusiastic planter of the past.

The most promising plant for a time was Tapioca, and two large plantations were openeda up. The first was that of the Chasserian estate, and the other that of Trafalgar (Mr. Knaggs). When first planted the price of tapioca (prepared for the market) was Si to $9 per picul but it soon fall to about half the figure. as Malacca, with colimited land, and better soil, came into competition and caused the Singapore estates to close up, and they had to be ab indoned. After tapioca proved a failure Mr. Chasserian plunted a large portion of his estate with Liberian coffee, and competition again killed the cultivation. The chief source of the world, namely Brazil, increased its output and as a result the price fell in America and Europe, and the article could not be produced at a figure which would cover the cost to the Singapore planter."

Now the planter looks to Para Rubber to make a fortune and there is no doubt it has come into the market when wanted. No submitute has yet mide its appearance, nor has any pest proved huntful to the plant, while a large use has presented itself in the munifactors of tyres for all kinds of carriage wheels. Besides there are other articles which will find a large use for Rubber and will keep the market busy for many years to come.

THE TRUTH ALWAYS.

"When you are in doubt tell the truth." was an experienced old diplomat who said this to a beginner in the work. It may pass in some things, but not in business. Fraud and decepyet detection is certain sooner or later; the comes the smash-up and the punishment. Th best and safest way is to tell the truth all the shillings to the pound everywhere your good are offered for sale. We are able modestly 'affirm, that it is on this basis that the worl wide popularity of

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION rests, The people have discovered that this medicine is exactly what it is said to be, an

that it does what we have always declared will do. Its nature also has been frankly made known. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of lippophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. A combination of supreme excellence and medicinal merit. Nothing has been so successful in Anemia, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Influenza, Loss of Flesh and Wasting Diseases, Weakness and Low Nervous Tone, and all complaints caused by Impure Blood. Dr. Austin D. Irvine, of Canada, says: "1 have used it in cases where cod liver oil was indicated but could not be taken by the patient, and the results following were very gratifying." It is effective from the first dose and agrees with the most sensitive and nervous stomachs. It cannot deceive or disappoint you. and comes to the rescue of those who has received no benefit from any other treatmen it stands for the medicinal triumphs of the ag Watch carefully against imitations," Sold b chemists throughout the world.

HONGKONG ASSESSMENTS.

Some curious and interesting figures are given in the Assessor's report on the valuation of the Colony in the past year and for 1908-1909, which shows that so far as house property is concerned the Colony is practically standing still. It had been expected matter of fact there is an actual decrease of $815. 'Although'that is not an extraordinary amount, being only .co of the total amount, it is significant of the errors which those who have ideas on the expansion of Kow-Kowloon was growing at an enormous rate, a militiny man. other day, that the premises of Messrs. Butof the landscape, that there was such a myriad of lights on the water front that vessels entering through Lycemun Pass failed sometimes to distinguish. Kowloon: from Hongkong and an additional lighthouse was necessary, and yet with all this importance attached to Kowloon the valuation for 1908, 1909 has dropped from $1,286,382 to $1,285,567. Where then is the expansion, we had heard about and believed regarding the coming grandeur of the peninsula? It certainly does not appear in the Assessor's report and if anybody should know about these things it should certainly be the Assessor of the Colony. Victoria; on the other hand, is still going ahead, the valuation of property for next year being put at $8,987,125 - in incresse of $94,920 or 1,06 per cent, while the Hill district and Hongkong villages have improved by $6,475, next year's valuation being placed at $6,475. The total valuation of the dollars. In his first paragraph the writer of late General Kodama. the report remarks that : " His Excellency the Governor-in-Council under Section 8 of the Rating Ordinguce No. 5 of 1901, ordered the existing valuation for 1907-1908 to be adopted as the valuation for 1908-1909. During the past year no general assessment has been made, the difference in Rateable Value being the result of Interim-Assessments and Appeals," So that after all it may be that Kowloon has not in fact suffered during the year, but has only been

The only places across the harbour that Morest to save promered from the official point of voware Mongkoktsui, whose rateaple value has been enhanced by $3,585; New Kowloon, which shows an increase by the poble sum of 1480; and Kowloon vil lages, whose rateable value has gone up from 8146,087 to $150,367, a rise of $4,280 which may perhaps be taken as evidence of the presence of the railway works. In Victoria there were try tenements built or reconstructed, whose rateable value is placed at $134,140 while a sum of $15,330 is placed at the credit of the city's property under the name of alterations. That gives a total of $149,470 but from that sum has to be deducted $26,910 for assessments cancelled, tenements pulled down or because in other respects they were not rateable, leaving the increase on the property assessment o Victoria at $222,560. In the rest, of the Colony the value of new or rebuilt tenements only rose by a paltry $18,775 while from that had to be deducted $5,965 for assessments cancelled; etc. Appeals were made against the assessments of 249 tenements with a mteable value in the aggregate of $452,180. By order of the Court reductions amounting to $36,195 were made. The number of reported vacant tenements in the city of Victoria inspected under Section 35 of the Rating Ordinance averaged about 180 monthly, against 218 last year. Now, it may be asked, which is the most valuable section of the city? The answer is Chung Wan, which is rated at $3,627,670 and increased since last year by $19,000 odd its previous valuation. But it is to Kennedy Town that belongs the credit of showing the largest advance in the valuation, namely $30,950—the figures being, for 1907-1908 $189.470 and for the current year $220,420. Sheung Wan, with its house value recknned at over a million dollars, did not cut a discreditable figure for the year, the increase attributed to it being $18,340. Wanchai. could only manage to advance by 59,500, while Bowrington and Soo Kon Poo have neither increased nor decreased their valuation. Probably there will be a few who are interested in the Peak. It is called "The Hill District" in the official report and while the valuation last year was placed at $261,070 this year it has been raised to $261,265; or an increase of $2,195. But it surely must strike the ordinary man that the valuation of this rich and ornamental district, where the bon ton have their palaces and the taipan's their retreats, and where, like treylon's isle, only man-in this case the Chinese race-is regarded as vile, valuation of this prosperous residential quarter is absurdly low. But, of course, the Asiessor knows best and ordinary people must leave it at that. But why is it that he should be necessarily so laconic? There is not a word of explanation, not an

A MAGNIFICENT CHINESE FUNKRAL.

Writing on the 20th ult. the Tainan (Formosa) correspondent of the Japan Chronicle says :- A few months ago there died in Tainan one of the wealthiest Chinese here. During the past few days we have been treated to an exhibition of funeral sites on a scale probably rever before witnessed in South Form sa. The people often tack of a great funeral that took place about twenty years ago ; but this last one has evidently in every respect far outshone the earlier. Some little time before he died the deceased sent for a foreign doctor to come across from Amoy to visit him, paying a fee of Y1,000. The dead man's name was Tan Phokhak. He or his relatives had at one time a very close connection with the firm of Messes.

Tait & Co. 'the body is ultimately to he removed to the mainland of China, but as a preparation for that event suitable funeral rites had first to be performed here. At the funeral there were no fewer than thirty-six priests of various kinds officiating, v.z., eighteen Buddhist priests, nine of whom were Japanese and nine Chinese. Then there were also nine Taoist and nine Venetarian priests. I be proceedings lasted several days and fully thirty thousand yen were spent on the ceremonies. The perambulation of the streets lit up by at least ten thousand lamps was a sight not easily forgotten: lustead of a funeral it was more like a gay festival, and every one seemed intent on enjoying himself and herse f to the utmost. And not a doubt but many of the processi mists had good cause to be alid at the death of old blind, though rich, Phok-hak. The ancient scenes acte! seemed almost. endless. Among other things there were twenty-four, table a ex-representing notable instances of ancient filial piety. Here, for example, is a representation of the old story of a man called Tai Sun, whose pare 'ts forced him to work in the fields. Though he felt unsuited. dof the hard labour he obeyed his parents and went. Birds come and in pity accomplished all the weeding for him, and an alephant kindly did all his ploughing. The Emperor, Giau Te, heard of the Bial son; and, thinking he might make a good ruler, resolved to try his temper and his picty still ferther. Eirst the Emperor made him marry his own two daughters (princesses), and afterwards sent his nine sons to work for him and watch his conduct for three years. At the end of that period the princesses, and princes gave good reports The Emperor was satisfied that the man, Tai-Sun, was really humble and filial, so he abdicated the throne in his favour. . . Next came a more or less life-like representation of the lad, Ong Siong, sleeping on ice. The sweltering heat in which the scene was acted made it difficult to believe in the ice deception | The story is that the lad's father was ill and wished to eat fish. "But all the bonds were frozen. The son showed his love for his father by sleeping on the ice, which molted awing to the heat from the lad sabody. Out leapt two fish, which he gladly carried home and cooked for his father.

Then there was a representation of the boy called Beng Tsong weeping at the foot of a grove of bamboos. His father was anxious to cat bamboo shoots. It was winter time and therefore none to be had. The lad goes sadly to the grove; falling down he clasps them and weeps so copiously that heaven and earth are moved by his correcties, and though it is winter time the bamboos at once push out their sweet succulent sprouts, which he carries in triumph to his father ...

Still aunther filial'scene is that of Koch Ku. He is a happy husband and has just become a joyful father. His old-mother's toothless gums cannot thew ordinary food. She longs for milk, but in the poverty of the family she despairs of getting it. Koch Ku consults with his wife, and they resolve to bury their little son, consoling themselves that they will by and by get another, and let the old mother be fed at the breast of her daughter-in-law. As he digs the grave the fither's spade strikes on a boiler full of gold pieces, which in ordinary circumstances should belong to the State, but on the top of the nugge's are the words in Chinese thyme :-

" Heaven bestows yellow gold, To Koch Ku the filial son ;

Magistrates must not fisece, k.

And people must not rob." Thus he had money to engage a wet nurse for his child, and his wife fed her mother-in-law. Filial piety was richly rewarded ..

After this came a picture of the boy who lay down naked on his parents' bed, allowed the mosquitoes to gorge themselves on him, and then rose to let his father and mother lie down without fear of disturbance from the pests.

In this way tableau after tableau to the number of twenty-four passed along the street, and finally came a scene dearly loved by all Chinese. The parents of a certain man called Teng Lin are both dead. That he might have as far as possible his parents still with him, he made, wooden, images thaving faces similar to those of his parents. At every meal he placed bowls of food in front of the two images. Also by means of the divining blocks he consulted them as to everything he did. One day a neighbour came to borrow something his wife. She told the would-be borrower she could not lend the article till her husband came home and had an opportunity to consult the mind of his parents. The neighbour became very angry at being thus refused, and in derison stuck a pln into one of the wooden images, when lo ! blood spuried from News has reached the Japan Deep Sea the pin-hole. When Teng Lan saw the blood and heard the story from his wife, he accused that the six members of her crew who were the neighbour before the magistrate, who condemned to death have lodged an appeal severely punished the man and proclaimed the

THE votive offerings to the spirit of the coad man, a bit on the 18th last.

And then from the Chinese point of view came the most interesting part of the whole show. After the procession had passed, the deceased's representatives came along and inquired the cost of the food on all the tables. Whatever the price mentioned might be they placed or the table as a present a sum of money variably a little in excess of that expended. this way they more than paid for the food all the wayside tables, fully 1,000, and then the man who had prepared the food carried it home and leasted himself and his friends. In it at wender that the people turned out in the thousands and paid their sad, sincere respects to the dead man?" Such a funeral has never before been seen in South Formosa.

THE CAPIAIN OF THE "TENYO-MARU."

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

A San Francisco paper, dated July 5, has the following account of the life and experiences Captain Going, master of the T.K.K. steamer Tenyo-mary :--

From the position of a humble apprentice on a windlammer to that of master of the speediest, handsomest, and most modem steamship that over moved through the greta seas of the Pacific Ocean is troly a remarkable transition, but it took thirty long years to bring

"Such has been the race and the prize for Captain Philip Hastings Going of the new tur bine liner Tenyo-maru of the Toyo Kisen Kalsha Steamship Company, which came into San Francisco bay last Monday (June 20th) haughty, bristling, and grand, by right superiority, having broken every transpacific passenger ricord between Yokohama and San Francisco.

"From the time of his birth, 44 years ago, Malta Captain Going has known the pitch and toss of the ocean. When but an infant in arms he had instilled, into him the instincts of the sailor, as his mother took him by sea from place to place in order to be near the father who cruised European waters.

"I shall never forget the day when I first Captain Going, as he glauced through the Hongkong and also at the Office of the underparts of his luxurious cabin, seven decks above signed. the wat r, at the scores of swatthy stevedores unloading the yawning holds of his great ship. 'I can see now a dark retreating bay on which rode at anthor the little sailing vessel upon 737] which I was to begin my career as a sailor. A curving shore, with great beetling cliffs, throwing shadows on the deep, and futher back the drowsy town which had been my home. As'l stood on the dusty quay I knew that my life would be that of the sea so long as I lived. My father had apprenticed me for four years at a cost of £60.

"The life of the apprentice in those days." was not an easy one, although the boys with whom I first came in contact were pretty Jucky. The Rest sailed from Liverpool to Calcutts. On her homeward voyage fire broke out in her hold. Hundreds of miles from land, with an inflammable cargo in which a stubborn fitt raged, was not a pleasant e parience to encounter on one's first voyage. The captain the Peer, a hardy old Scot, who had braved every peril of the sea in his time, finally mastered the situation. For days and nights we stor by the pumps on the blistering decks, while dense volumes of smoke poured from the batches, stilling from the odour of tar from the spreading cracks. Finally the fire was subdued and we lumbered on to the nearest port, bad waterlogged, but with decks nill above—the surface.

' (n out next voyage we had another taste of the hardships of the sea. From India to Dondee the ship was 193 days in making the 738] passage. We had to put into two places for food. Once we reached St. Helena with the whole crew nearly starved, having subsisted on potatoes for over ten days."

"For five years Captain Going sailed out of Liverpool at an apprentice on the sailing slips Peer, Enterprise and Commerce. There's one memory of those boyhood days on the sea, which will never be effaced from my mind, said Captain Going. We were somewhere out in the middle of the Atlantic in the Enterprise, homeward hound to Liverpool from 'San Francisco." The day had been strangely calm, with a glassy sea covered with a tow-hanging vague haze. Along towards sunset, it came on blow. The sea arose and with it the wind increased from pulls into a hanicane. This preparation is unquestionably one of the most genuins and reliable Fatern Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by Micord, Rostan, Johnt, Velpeau, Mahomeuve, the well-known Chatsalgnac, and indeed by all who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the 'colobrated Lallemand, and Rouz, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require each a remedy we think there is no doubt. From the time of Aristotle downwards, a potent agent in the removal of those diseases has (like the famed philosopher's stone) been the object of search of some hopeful, generous minde I and far beyond the mere power—if such could ever have been discovered—of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a round yet potent as to replenish the failing energies of the confirmed own in the one case, and in the other so effectually, speedily and safely to exper from the system without the aid, or even the knowledge, of a record party, the poisons of acquired or inherited discase in all their protess forms as to leave no tainter trace behind. Jabes Wolffe failed yesterday (July 6) in his attempt to swim the English Channel. But he made a remarkably fice effort. Entering the sea near Dover at 4.5 a.m. be remained in the water till 6 p.m. (14 hours), when he was within three miles of the French coast. Then finding that he was making no headway, he gave up. He had covered 35 miles. Beautiful weather prevailed for the event. Wolffe was accompanied from Dover by a party of between 30 and 40 persons (many of whom represented swimming clubs), on board the yacht Sea Wolf, which was used in his swims last year. He arrived at the South Foreland lighthouse at high water, and at five minutes past four he waded into the sea and commenced his swim!

A NEW COURSE.

. He started from nearly the same position as on his previous efforts, but under the advice of his French pilot, M. Duterire, he took a different course from the Goodwins, the object being to swim for Calais instead of to the west of Cape Grisnez, which has a cen the objective of most Channel swimmers.

The temperature of the sea did not exceed from 58 deg. to 50 deg., but this had no lit effect upon Wolffe, who had previously made all his practice swims this year in a much lower temperature. He swam with his usual left over-arm stroke, going about 32 to 25:10 the minute. :

The eastern flowing tide, which had about three hours to run, carried him in the direction of the South Goodwin Lightship. This he cleared on the shore side, and by the time the tide had finished running he was from three to four miles off the shore between Kingsdown and Walmer.

BRIEF INTERVALS FOR FOOD, He swam with scarcely any variation in his strokes, and only occasionally stopped for feeding purposes. Refreshment was given to him from over the side of a small boat. Mrs. Wolffe had charge of these arrangements.

Several gentlemen on the steamer occasionally took a turn in the water with Wolffe, but they were unable to keep u , with him for very tong. Mr. W. Kellingley, a well-known member of the Brighton Swimming Club, made the best performance.

On board the yacht were a couple of pipers Nicol and Hendrey, who throughout the day frequently played the swimmer; some of his favourite tunes.

. Several ships were passed in the Channel, including some men-of-war on their way to the manutuvres.

-Like Holbein, Wolffe has an extraordinary resistance to the cold, and several times when spoken to said the water seemed quite warm to him. He entered the slack water between tides when four miles from the shore, and then made a bec-line for Calais to the extent of about one and a half miles before the cbb tide set in. At this time the fishing smack Bonnie Marguerste sailed up, and her crew gave Wolffe a cheer, which was responded to by those on board the Sea Wolf.

SMOOTH SEA AND HOT SUN. the heat of the sun was so great that Wolffe Company at Kowloon.

wore his goggles and a head dress. Swimming on the abb tide Wolffe made a line in the direction of a point about two miles east of Cape Grisner, and about half-past two he got to within seven miles of the French coast, or two miles from Cape Grisnez Point, at which time the tide had/commenced to run eastward; which gave him a slight set in to wards Cape Blancnez.

With the flood tide came a little breeze from the enstward, which set up rather an uncomfortable fap on the water. Notwithstanding that Wolffs had been in the water twelve hours. he was still swimming his powerful side stroke with no decrease in his energy.

AMONG "JELLY FISH." Wolffe had passed through several patches of jelly fish, and twice run close to a shoal of mackegel. Just before two o'clock the London turbice pleasure steamer Kingfinlier, bound to Boulogne, passed the party, and the passengers gave him a hearty cheer. Shortly afterwards a Boulogne trawler came up, and the crew conversed with the French, pilot as to Wolffe's position, which was then considered to be excellent. Wolffe gase up, as stated, when three miles off the French coast off Cape Hancher. strong easterly current off the cape was drifting him towards the North Sea. Wolfle was quite fresh, but he left the water as he could make no headway .- Morning Leader,
